MASONARY DEPARTMENT OF THE RANDOPH HENRY H. S.

The Randolph Henry Masonary Department is very proud and happy to announce that three talented young ladies have enrolled in its brick laying class. They are Flora Randolph, Katherine Jackson and Marion Bolden. Mr. Leon A. Lawing, instructor, says he finds the young ladies willing to cooperate and quickly grasp the fundamentals and the usage of the common masonry tools. In interviewing the girls, each was asked their opinion of the class. Flora, said, "I think it is super and the best class I have ever had". Ktherine said, "It's a rewarding experience and gives me a change of life". Marain said, "The class is very interesting and gives women a different position in life."

On October 24, the classes visited the Dunbrick Co. in Lynchburg, Va. and were shown how bricks and cinderblocks were made. Our instructor, Mr. Lawing, is planning other trips for the enrichment of the classes.

ENERGY SAVINGS TIPS FOR THE WEEK

When you leave the house, even for a few hours, turn the heat down. If you're away for several days, lower your heat to about 50 degrees. When you return, it will take awhile to warm up the house again.. Try to schedule unpacking or housework for these times, so you don't have to turn the heat up past its usual setting. Let the house reheat slowly. Quick heating wastes some of the fuel and money you saved while away.

In planning for this winter's cold weather identify those places that need to be "buttoned up") (1) Ceiling and Roof: where 15% - 20% of total heat is lost. This can be reduced by proper insulation and ventilation, (2) Doors and Windows: where 25% to 30% is lost. Storm windows and doors can reduce this loss. (3) Walls: from 20% to 30% of the heat is lost through walls. Proper insulation reduces this loss. (4) Floors: only 4% to 10% of heat is lost through floors over unheated spaces, but this loss is considerable when planning insulation. (5) Air Change (infiltration): an estimated 20% to 35% of the heat is lost in this manner. Practices such as weatherstripping and caulking can reduce this loss.

If you do a lot of open-road driving, a cruise control option for your car may be worthwhile. Such an accessory can maintain a steady speed, rarely using the carburetor's accelerator pump.
